Movement on Foot to Launch Protest Against Sanitary System Improvement Plan

Wednesday morning's mail brought to property owners along Scenic Drive and the Carmel Point area notices of unexpectedly heavy assessments for installation of a sewage system for inclusion in the Carmel Sanitary District.

July 11 has been set as the date for any written protests which will be read at that time. The hearing will be held in the council chambers at 7:30 p. m.

Property owners are up in arms about the situation. One property owner on the Point has been assessed for an amount in the neighborhood of $12,000.

Total cost of the work to be done, as stated in the notice, is to be about $194,000. Property owners are, this week, getting together on the matter and an attorney will be hired to investigate the matter and to represent those who are protesting the action. Meanwhile, the board of directors of the sanitary district has advertised for sealed bids on the work to be done.

Officials of the board pointed out today that if a majority of the property owners protest the action, the district will be forced to drop proceedings for a period of a year. Those involved who wish information on the project and on what basis the assessments have been made, may call at the sanitary district office.

It was also pointed out that the proceedings were started upon recommendation by County Health Department officials, with the approval of the City of Carmel, the County Supervisors, and Carmel Unincorporated. No petition was circulated on the matter, since the board has power to initiate proceedings.

About ten years ago an effort was made on the part of the sanitary district to have the Point and Scenic Drive area sewered, but the board members dropped the project in the face of the vigorous protest led by Robinson Jeffers and Byington Ford, heaviest property owners in the area. Jeffers, still a large land owner, would be under a heavy burden of expense if the present plan goes through.

Tradition Revived With Children's Play In Forest Theater

As the Forest Theater enters its fortieth season, Carmel may well be glad that a children's play is again to be one of the major productions of the summer. During its long history, dramas acted by and for the young people have been an important and delightful part of the work in our beautiful outdoor playhouse. It has been 13 years, however, since a full-length performance wholly or chiefly by children has been seen in the Forest Theater.

A Mid-summer Night's Dream, given last year, had 18 children in

Kuster Presents Winslow Boy At Sunset Auditorium

Rallying to the support of the Golden Bough Playhouse restoration fund, the exceptional all-British cast who presented the surprise hit last February, The Winslow Boy, will again perform this distinguished play at Sunset Auditorium this weekend and the next. The dates of performance are tomorrow and Sunday, June 18 and 19, and Sunday-Monday, June 26 and 27.

The Winslow Boy, by Terence Rattigan, is based on the Archer-Shee case, which had all England by the ears about the turn of the century. It is the story of an English school boy who was expelled from the Royal Naval College for the alleged theft of a postal order. His father, outraged at what he believed to be a high-handed and despotic official act, set the ponderous machinery of English law to grinding, and for years engaged in one of the most dramatic and moving conflicts in modern history of a single individual against a powerful government agency. In the actual case he was aided by England's greatest advocate, Lord Edward Carson, who in the play is represented by the superbly drawn character of Sir Robert Morton, played by a favorite Peninsula actor, Said Riza.

The Winslow Boy is regarded as one of the finest plays of our generation, and under Edward Kuster's direction the local presentation has won high praise. The full cast is as follows: Rear Admiral James Ashton, Sybil Skinner, Verena Shaxon, Bryan Lambert, Yvonne Garder, John Tyler, Alexander Merivale, George Calvert, Said Riza, and Gabrielle Kuster.

For advance reservations phone 403-R. Tickets and reservations on days of performance may be secured at Sunset Auditorium, telephone 611.

Marilyn Sargent To Be Presented June 26 By M.A.C.

On Sunday afternoon, June 26, the Musical Art Club will present Marilyn Sargent, 18 year old pianist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sargent of Fresno. Marilyn started piano instruction at the age of six under Mrs. Louis Strohauer, the noted Bach interpreter, rather by chance as Mrs. Strohauer remarked on Marilyn's unusual hands and asked to teach her while the Sargents were registering Marilyn's brother for piano instruction. At ten Marilyn appeared in her first solo recital. She was a pupil of Ludwig Harikian for a year and a half until he was called into the service in 1942, whereupon she became the only child to be accepted by Miss Marian Fox Withrow of Fresno State College as a piano pupil. While under her tutelage Marilyn presented a program in December, 1943, and at the age of 14 entered

Music And The Other Arts

BY DAVID ALBERTO

Are we too old—or too sane to visualize masses of sound piled up in terms of time, as tangible matter is piled in space, to complete a unified form? Upon the answer depends the ability to grasp the structural composition of a Bach Fugue stretched horizontally through the minutes and only through this same illusion may we hope to find the superstructure of Mozart's and Haydn's and Weber's music extending similarly through time, but with the uprights somewhat more in evidence.

They erected well—those gods, but the profound edifice in this style is the work of that god, superior among gods, Beethoven. With him we shall dwell a considerable period, though not too long, for at this point not a few musicians have spent the greater part of their careers.

Together with the name Beethoven we associate the term Sonata, or Symphony, which is but a Sonata for orchestra, brought to its culmination. But this term So-

PINE CONE-WILDER & JONES CLASH NEXT TUESDAY NIGHT

Softball fans will be spilling over the sides of Sunset Field next Tuesday night when the two local Bay League teams meet for the first time this year. The Plumbers are currently in second place and riding a three game winning streak, while the Pine Cone is close on their heels. Softball filberts have been anxiously awaiting the meeting of these two topflight teams and they should be rewarded by some of the best softball yet exhibited at Sunset Field.

Hefty Clyde Walker, the darling of the Plumbers, will toe the rubber for the W&J boys and, off his recent performance, should prove a tough obstacle for the Pine Cone swingers. Clyde has been stingy with hits and has shown an amazing ability to put on a strikeout show when the going is toughest. Manny DeMaria, Clyde's battery mate, is being tabbed as the power-hitter of the circuit after his record drive at Sunset last week. Besides being a potent stickman, Manny is one of the smartest receivers in the league. With such good hitters as Lou Sanders, Morrie Viramontes, Arch Miyamoto, and Jack Riordan backing up this potent battery, it is no wonder the Plumbers are near the top of the league.

To counter the W&J power, the Pine Cone will shoot the old Carmel favorite, Ky Miyamoto, against the Plumbers. Ky has pitched against the best of them and has always been tough to handle. His strikeout record for this season is about on a par with Walker's, and he has been a little stingier with the base hits. Besides being a very reliable chucker, Ky wields one of the most dangerous willows of any hitter in the league. It will be extremely interesting to see Ky matching his canny pitching against the hitting power of brother Archie. The dangerous hitting Joe Nicholson will direct the Pine Cone play from his catcher's position.

Addition of Phil Wettengel, Oklahoma University horsehider, will give the Pine Cone infield help and add to their power at the dish.

In a 7 o'clock preliminary, the Carmel Girls will stage a rematch with the Marinetees from Marina. Bonnie's lassies copped a 10-5 decision from the Marina gals last week and the visitors are out to even the score.

Salinas Rodeo Well Under Way

The annual California Rodeo at Salinas began yesterday and will continue through Sunday, with topnotch cowboy stars from all over this country and Canada on hand to compete for the big prize money. Local cowboys and riders will take part in some of the arena and track events, as well.

Many Carmel residents were seen on hand on the opening day, while a number of Carmel Valley and Big Sur residents were riding in the opening day parade to the rodeo grounds. The Salinas Rodeo is one of the biggest in the country, next to that held annually at Madison Square Garden.

WILDER & JONES EDGE THE MASSERAS IN 2-1 THRILLER

Sparked by the younger of the Jones boys, Kenny, the Plumbers took a firm grip on second place in the Bay League by downing the Masseras All-Stars, 2 to 1, last Monday night at Sunset Field. With the score tied, 1 to 1, in the last of the sixth, second-baseman K. Jones lashed out a screaming drive past the Massera left-fielder and circled the bases before the ball could be returned to the infield. This was a fitting climax to the best softball game played at Sunset Field this season.

The Plumbers drew first blood when Morey Viramontes waited out a walk and tallied on Riordan's single. Masseras came back to tie the score in the first of the sixth, but Kenny's blow in the bottom of the sixth iced the game for the locals.

Besides providing the game-winning blow, young Kenny also provided one of the fielding gems of the evening when he came up with a rebound off the first baseman and hurdled the initial-sacker to make the put out.

Viramontes, W&J center-fielder, brought the fans to their feet by a one-handed stab of a low liner which was ticketed for a sure base hit.

Short score:	R	H	E
Masseras	1	4	1
W&J	2	5	0

Batteries: Masseras: E. Chitwood and Tracy; W&J: Walker and DeMaria. Umpires: George De Amaral and Jack Giles; struck out by Walker, 9; by Chitwood, 6.

LOCAL CRICKETERS WIN

The Del Monte Cricket Club, in their most exciting game of the season, defeated the Golden Gate Club of Berkeley by one run (104 to 103) at Carmel High School Sunday. The game was witnessed by a number of people who had come to the high school for the formal opening of the swimming pool which took place at the same time. Del Monte went in first and their highest scorers were Tony Kent 38 and Eric Petrie 29. The most successful bowler was Vic Mantilla, who took five wickets for 52 runs and almost accomplished the "hat trick," which consists in taking three wickets with three successive balls; Mantilla took two wickets with two balls and three wickets in the same over.

For the losers H. Foster went in first and was undefeated at the end of the innings with 32 runs to his credit; R. Newbold made 36. With one run only needed to tie the score, the last two Golden Gate batsmen (Foster and DeWitt) attempted a run, but the wicket was struck by an accurate return from Jim Southwell and DeWitt was run out, thus ending the innings and the match.

The usual practice will be held at Carmel on Thursday evening, and on Sunday the Club will oppose the Olympic Club of San Francisco in the first round of the Thomas H. Price Cup. The game will take place at Carmel High School, starting at 1 p. m.

CARMEL GIRLS TRIM MARINA MARINETTES, 10 TO 5

Very professionally attired in spanking new baseball regalia, Bonnie Giles' Carmel lassies made their 1949 softball debut a winning one by downing the Marina Marinettes last Monday night. Slightly nervous in the first inning, the local pretties allowed the visitors to tally five runs and take a substantial lead. However, the gals came back during the rest of the contest and gave the Marinettes nothing but goose eggs whil e they were spiking the platter for 10 runs. Four nifty double plays turned in by Bonnie's Beauties were instrumental in keeping the Marinettes away from home plate.

Jerry Yokum handled the pitching assignment for the Carmel girls and pitched very creditable ball after a shaky first inning. The peppy antics of catcher Dici Douglas kept the game alive all the time.

Next outing for the Carmel girls will be Wednesday, June 22, when they have a rematch with the Marina lassies.

Ruth Cooke Singing: An Impression

BY UNA JEFFERS

Last Sunday evening Ruth Hill Cooke delighted the audience gathered in the Carmel Woman's Club House to hear her sing. She has long been a well known figure here, where she has taken part in various activities. Many know her through the succession of first aid courses she conducted for Red Cross, others for her faithful work at USO, where her gaiety revived courage in many a doubting GI. For years she has been singing in the choir at Carmel Mission, under the direction of Noel Sullivan, with whom she quietly began special study of language and voice two years ago. How well she has progressed was evident in the beautiful program she presented in this first concert of hers, given as a benefit for the children of Finland.

A few present had heard her sing at Hollow Hills Farm, but to most of the audience the quality of her voice was a revelation. It is a deep contralto, best in its lower register, most poignant when expressing melancholy, the mood of falling leaves and the darkness of the tomb; and it is a voice fitted for songs of love and violent emotion. The two songs I enjoyed most were The Gull and Hindu Love Song. Her singing of the refrain, "Come back to me, beloved, or I die" was the most thrilling moment of the evening for me.

Knowing Ruth Cooke's strong allegiance to the Scotch strain in her blood, I would like to hear her sing some of the wild, full-blooded old Scotch ballads. I thought, too, she looked like an old Scotch portrait I have seen in Edinburgh, as she stood there erect and assured in her turquoise dress, just the color of her eyes, red hair piled high above her strong face; and when she sang as encore, Flow Gently, Sweet Afton, her voice had a wistful tenderness not revealed in any other song on the program.

Noel Sullivan, who has been tireless in the development of her voice, gave her steady and sympathetic support at the piano.

Albert Goringer

Word has been received here of the death of Albert Goringer, 74, at the Birmingham Veterans' Hospital in Van Nuys. He had lived here for 12 years and was a member of the Carmel Pistol Club and the American Legion.

He had many friends here who will remember the excellent camera work that he did as a hobby. He was a veteran of three wars.

Private services were held at Van Nuys, followed by military services at Sawtelle. He was the uncle of Mary Helen Jordan (Mrs. Jack Jordan), formerly of Carmel.

A. D. Gove

A. D. Gove, 57, dropped dead of a heart attack aboard the Southern Pacific Gold Coast train just as it was pulling into the Oakland mole on June 5, it was learned here this week.

Mr. Gove had recently retired as claims adjuster for the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad. He is survived by a son, David Gove, of Carmel.

Recreation Program Activities

By GEORGE MOSOLF

Monday morning, from 10 to 11:30, Carmel small fry, ages 4-10, are invited to attend the free Puppet Show held in the Sunset Cafeteria. Performed, produced, and directed by the Hildebrand sisters, Laurel and Carol, this popular feature has been a part of the recreation program for three years. Children revel in the breath-taking antics of the cleverly designed puppets performing their week-by-week serial. Parents are invited to bring their children and stay for the show or leave their children for an hour of good entertainment while they get the shopping done. Remember, Monday morning from 10 to 11:30.

FOLK DANCING RESUMES ON MONDAY AND THURSDAY

Mrs. Hitchings' folk dancing classes which proved so popular during the past year will continue as a part of the summer recreation program. As during the school year, beginners classes will be held on Monday and the advanced group will meet on Thursday. Classes will be held in the Sunset Cafeteria during the summer. Adults and students are invited to attend these enjoyable sessions. Time: 7 to 10 p. m.

TEEN AGE DANCE AT LEGION HALL WEDNESDAY NIGHTS

The informal sport dances which provided the teen agers with so many enjoyable Wednesday nights last summer will continue during the current vacation season. The dances will be held at the American Legion Hall starting Wednesday, June 22. Teen agers may come stag or drag and there is no admission charge. A dance instructor will be on duty at 8:30 to help anyone wishing to brush up on the latest steps. Dancing until 11:30. Coke bar.

FAMILY RATES AT SWIM SESSIONS

In order to ease the financial load where there is more than one child in the family, the swimming pool directors have decided that, regardless of the size of the family, all the children will be admitted for a single admission fee—15 cents. That means, if there are four kids in the family, and they come to the pool at the same time, only one of them will have to carry the 15 cents. No fair adopting brothers and sisters on the spur of the moment.

The morning instruction classes are free and will be held from 10-12, monday through Friday. Monday's session will be reserved for grades 7 to 12, but the rest of the days are open for all children. There will be beginners classes at 10. Intermediate classes at 10:30. Advanced classes at 11. Diving and life-saving classes will start in two weeks.

Glenn Clairmonte To Direct Writers Summer Conference

The Writers Summer Conference will open July 5 at Sunset School and will consist of six evening meetings for the discussion of short story technique and magazine markets, according to Charles Dawson, principal of the Carmel Adult School. All those wishing to register are requested to do so at once, giving evidence of one manuscript sale or at least two rejections from leading magazines. This requirement is for the purpose of insuring the serious ambitions of the attendants at this special course. Mr. Dawson has asked Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte to direct the conference this year.

The meetings will be held in room 11 of Sunset School on the following Tuesday evenings: July 5, 12 and 26, August 2, 9 and 16. The two week hiatus between July 12 and 26 is arranged to enable the writers to attend the Bach Festival. There will be no charge for the course but each member of the group will be expected to present at least four short stories during the six weeks of the conference.

Helen Heavey Named Vice Chairman Of Carmel Red Cross

At a recent meeting of the executive committee of the Carmel Red Cross, Matthew C. Jenkins chapter chairman, announced that Miss Helen Heavey will serve as vice-chairman of the chapter, Miss Kathryn Bier as secretary, and George Knapp as treasurer.

Paul Whitman, chairman of the blood program, spoke of the difficulty of getting a sufficient number of blood donors from the Carmel area. Mrs. A. F. Blanks, who has been speaking before many women's organizations in the last six weeks and showing the film, A Life in Your Hands, received special praise for her fine work in blood recruitment. It was announced that the next monthly visit of the mobile unit to the Monterey Peninsula will be on June 27 and appointments are scheduled in advance through the Carmel chapter, telephone 382.

The executive committee of the Carmel chapter is composed of Dr. Remsen Bird, Paul Whitman, Mrs. Ernest Morehouse, Miss Bier, Mrs. Kent Parrot, George Knapp, Miss Heavey, Mrs. Francis Foraker, and Frank Putnam. Also present at the meeting were Mrs. Rush R. Wallace, coordinator for Fort Ord services, and Miss Elizabeth Fogel, executive secretary of the chapter.

LEGION PARTY TOMORROW

It's open house at Carmel's American Legion Hall tomorrow night. Starting at 9:00 p. m., there will be dancing to a five-piece orchestra, games, and of course, refreshments. Admission tickets, for which there is no charge, can be obtained from any Legion member.

New Swimming Pools Are Now Officially Open

Carmel High School's new swimming pools were officially opened last Sunday afternoon when hundreds of local residents attended the dedication ceremonies.

Harold Nielsen, chairman of the board of trustees, accepted the project from architect Ernest Kump and Col. Roy Hillyer acted as master of ceremonies. Swimming teams from the high school and the San Francisco Olympic Club were introduced.

Swimmers participating from the local high school were: June Updike, Carol Templeman, Barbara Berg, Nancy Bacon, Alys Knight, Diana Horn, Nancy Brown, Mary Call, Bob Updike, Stewart Emery, Pete Berg, Walt Shaw, Joe Beard, Alan Reyburn, Bill Daniels, and Brent Milton.

Dr. Charles N. Pearson, president of the Carmel Lions Club, presented a check for the radiant heating of the pools. The Lions have raised the money over a period of several months with benefits and personal contributions.

An automobile as a result of one of the benefit programs is now owned by A. G. E. Hanke, and Mrs. Walter Lehman has a new washing machine.

The pools will be open to the public during the summer months at certain specified times as a part of the recreational program.

Music And The Other Arts

nata, also, has a broader significance for the various movements of which it is constituted include the remaining three principal forms of classical music. The term Sonata is commonly though mistakenly applied to a single movement—the correct term being Sonata-Allegro form. Added to this form are the Rondo and Variation. These four major forms: the Fugue, Sonata-Allegro, Rondo and Variation represent the most advanced stages of the various trends in which classical music conceptions are presented, and within these forms may be found the numerous other minor designs appearing as parts of the whole.

Before approaching an analysis of these designs we may digress for a moment to consider some fundamental laws of harmony, as a promise was made earlier in these pages to establish an analogy between music and speech. Since harmony is the grammar of music, an example of the similarity between grammatical musical thought and grammatical speech will prove of value.

To proceed we will construct a musical thought as one might take a handful of matches and lay the floor plan of a house.

As illustration the statement "It is night" will serve to compare with these chords in C major.

We find chords on the first degree of the scale known as the Tonic Chord, a chord on the 5th degree or Dominant Chord, and another Tonic Chord. Returning to the statement "It is night" we find a pronoun, a verb, and a predicate noun.

If the first chord is sound there is no inherent desire but when adding the second chord immediately a tendency to proceed is experienced. This second chord which we are to compare with the second word, the verb "is" possesses the nature of a verb and invites the same musical tendency for progression as the words "It is ———" awaken in us as we intuitively ask "is what?"

In other words we find that the second or Dominant Chord is of the nature of a verb.

It is possible to continue comparing other chords with the various parts of speech but it seems only necessary for the layman to realize that a logical or at least acceptable progression of chords does exist and that other successions are not acceptable; a condition comparable with grammatical construction. There exists an elaborate theory which accounts for the tendency to progress from certain tones to certain other degrees of the scale with the explanation that before the tempered scale was adopted the various intervals between each of the notes of the scale differed in extent and that a tone is naturally impelled toward the following note in the direction where the space in pitch is smallest. However this means of accounting for intuitive chord progression does not necessarily eliminate the possibility of ascribing grammatical significance to chord successions.

Personally I do not believe the relationship between chord and words to be a mere coincidence for as vocal music, the earliest music, developed into part singing and the several voices produced the chord it seems logical to assume that the composer intuitively instilled into his chords characteristics befitting the functions of the various parts of speech.

As example, if we set the sentence "The sky is blue" to music in this manner:

and compare this setting with the following:

we find the progression from the first to the second chord more acceptable in the last example.

In the former example the first chord is a dominant or verb chord associated with the adjective "The" and resulting in bad music. The latter example is better music as the first chord, the Supertonic to musicians, is one having adjective or adverbial characteristics.

To glance ahead for a moment to the subject which will occupy our attention later, it is interesting to note that in modern music which does not employ the diatonic scale no such grammatical comparison is possible. A likely explanation may be that certain modern music is more closely allied with painting and more removed from a literary association. In consequence the chords are more closely related to color than to words. Intimate conversation with composers reveals how closely chords and even scales are linked together with definite colors in the musician's imagination.

Having observed how notes and chords are significantly placed in successions to create ideas we may proceed to observe how the ideas are combined into the completed form.

From the Beethoven Sonata, Opus 101, we will hear eight measures as an example of what might constitute the shortest complete musical idea. Many folk songs contain not more than this number of measures.

Technically these eight measures constitute what is termed a Period, a term which implies nothing to the uninitiated. In fact, the cryptic choice of terms adopted as musical nomenclature will probably remain forever unrivalled and the unfortunate student who attempts to discover the definition of a term through consideration of the word itself will probably end in an institution where other incurables are also confined.

However, some of these terms will be employed, principally for your amusement and a definition offered for your elucidation.

This period then which might be understood as a musical sentence is constituted of two parts known respectively as the Antecedent and Consequent Phrases, each part of four measures and often explained as a musical question and answer. For this reason one may choose to regard a musical period as a compound sentence, one clause of which is interrogative, the other declarative and the two combined therefore constituting literature for illiterates.

If we listen again to this period, the distinction of question and answer or some similar complimentary—or possibly one may even find antagonism—does exist.

Considering these first four measures individually, four measures familiar to all, no doubt—but four measures with which each in turn will doubtless become estranged if regarded as an Antecedent Phrase—we find that they in turn are also divisible into two parts or rather into what is regarded generally as a phrase. In other words a theoretical phrase is composed of two actual phrases as each of you understands the phrase, such being a group of notes included within a phrase-line.

Well, anyhow, these first four measures constitute the Antecedent Phrase and this phrase or any other phrase of four measures we are told constitutes the smallest conceivable musical idea. Exactly why it must be four measures in length is probably only known to the theorists who have succeeded thus far in retaining the secret most successfully.

Two Carmel Citizens Prosecuted For Zoning Violation

With a sincere "this hurts me more than it does you" attitude, the city of Carmel, in the person of acting city attorney Charles Barrett hales into court this weekend Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brown, and Robert Stanton, Jr., for alleged violations of the multiple dwelling ordinance.

The ordinance limiting three paying guests to a lot in the residence district has been in effect since 1940. "The purpose of the ordinance is obvious, to protect home owners from encroachment of commercialism in the residence district," Charles Barrett, acting city attorney in the absence of William Hudson, points out. Violations of the code have become more flagrant year by year, yet the city council held off prosecution during the war years in the hope that when war time housing shortage was ameliorated violations would cease. For over a year the council has been warning violators that it means to enforce the law. Finally, with the support of the community, the council is bringing action.

The city has filed a petition in superior court in Salinas to enjoin the Browns from continuing their alleged violations of the multiple housing law.

Stanton's case will be heard in city court Friday, since, allegedly on receiving notice of the anticipated action in superior court he has brought his Normandy apartments into compliance with the ordinance is subject only to civil action for past violations, a misdemeanor subject to a maximum fine of $300.

Acting City Attorney Barrett has in his possession a list of 60 Carmel citizens subject to prosecution for violations of the three guest limitations clause, multiple kitchen ordinance, or for operating without a license. These will be enjoined if they do not comply, and will be subject to criminal action for past offenses if they do comply, though whether or not the city will continue to prosecute those now complying for past offenses remains to be seen.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

There will be a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Carmel Unified School District on Friday, July 1, at 2:00 p. m., for election of clerk of the district, and any other district business.

Carmel Ghost Story: A Bureau That Doesn't Exist Answers 63 Letters

All the world should know that aesthetic Carmel could not harbor so crassly commercial an institution as a chamber of commerce, but aparently it doesn't. Letters flow in from every state in the union, the territories, and a spattering of foreign countries, addressed to a bureau that doesn't exist. Yet they are answered, every one of them, courteously, promptly and efficiently.

Who does it?

It adds up to quite a job. Last month there were 63 letters from potential vacationers inquiring about housing. 80 per cent of them misspelling accommodations.

Most of the requests are for listings of hotels, rooming houses and cottages, but one enthusiast from Tucson, Arizona, wants to know, "Can you erect a tent for about two months?" and adds, "Do you have a rainy season there?"

From North Carolina a college art teacher who wants to paint in Carmel this summer asks the "Chamber" that doesn't exist for a pleasant room near the ocean at a reasonable rent. (Strangely, almost all the correspondents want quarters near the ocean, and "reasonably priced.") The art teacher would like to "locate with an artist or one with artistic leanings, preferably congenial people with a sense of humor. I have quiet tastes but do not mind being around people who express themselves—say with a saxophone or something." The writer can furnish references and is listed in Who's Who in American Art, and has recently had a one man show in Washington, D. C.

From Montana: "I understand there is an art colony during the summer months in Carmel. Will you please give me the name of a successful artist there?" The writer does not enlarge on the subject, so that one is left to speculate as to what use he intends to make of the information.

A Santa Rosa, California, resident would like to spend a few days here but wants to check on the weather first.

"Of course I know, having lived in California for many years, that it is impossible to predict accurately, but I have heard that fog is quite common in June. I wonder if it is also in July."

A physical education teacher writes from Southern California for information regarding accommodations in August; a football coach from Texas also would like to spend his vacation in Carmel.

A writer from Oakland with a seven year old black male cocker dog "whose manners are good" wants to spend the summer here in quarters near the water, or at least a room with a view. She has been married 11 years, is responsible, can furnish references and does not have wild parties and is considerate of other people. She smokes, however, and once a month she would go back to Oakland to visit her husband.

Occasionally a correspondent turns up who isn't seeking vacation accommodations in Carmel. A San Franciscan wants information of farms and farming in Carmel Valley, especially about crops raised there, weather during the different seasons, water conditions, and the average price of farms of small acreage. A junior high school student from Fresno wants the history of the Carmel Mission to use for a term paper. A San Jose resident wants to know about the rustic redwood cottages close to the stream near Big Sur. Here is a real find. She doesn't want a room at reasonable rates on Scenic Drive!

All in all, it is a fairly representative group of letters, the 63 that arrived in the month of May, the following states represented: Arizona, Pennsylvania, Oregon, Colorado, New York, Massachusetts, New Mexico, Louisiana, Missouri, Washington, Utah, New Jersey, Texas, Nebraska, Kansas, Montana and Illinois.

Who answers the letters? Who would but the Carmel Business Association?

NEW BIG SUR LODGE

Construction on a new Big Sur Lodge will begin in about two months, following allocation of state funds for use for the structure. The original lodge burned to the ground three years ago. The building, designed by architect Robert Jones, is expected to cost in the neighborhood of $250,000.

LADIES IN RETIREMENT NEXT WEEK

On June 23, 24 and 25, at the Naval Air Station theater, the Navy Women's Dramatic Club will stage Ladies in Retirement with Dan Totheroh directing. The Victorian drama of suspense on the English marshes is by Edward Percy and Reginald Denham. Tickets for the production are now on sale in Carmel at Abinante's Music Store.

Dr. Billie's Garden

By L. A. W.

Just about everything I try to grow out here on The Point is now in the ground, even to the pepper plants. Now the problem is to keep the successions going. No matter how I try to plan my schedule the early cabbages and cauliflowers are not quite all eaten up at the date when I would like to sow more carrots, or beets, or lettuce. So I just postpone the succession planting.

For some reason this year the "greens," endive, dandelion, and the like have come on fast and all at about the same time. The root vegetables have been terribly slow, some of the very early plantings should have been about all eaten up by now. So-o-o we are munching away like a couple of rabbits trying to eat those greens before they start "shooting."

This is a good year for green peas. So far, from about 60 feet of rows we have picked seven peach baskets of peas and shall easily get another one. These are the Mammoth Podded variety. The later vines look well, too; all full of blossoms and young pods—Little Marvel. But it's no use—I long ago gave up all hope of satisfying this family's appetite for green peas. There's no such amount as too many green peas—not for us.

Started to pick strawberries enough for supper dessert the other noon. First thing I knew there were so many that Bess had to stop ironing and make strawberry jam. She hadn't thought of getting her jamming utensils ready so early in the season, but we managed to whistle them all together and she "biled up a right smart batch" (as we used to say back in New England) with the sunshine all soaked in and sealed tight. She threatened a short-cake if I brought in any more, and made good on the threat a couple of day's later. A gardener's life has its compensations.

It just occurs to me that the celery and celeriac plants are still in their flats in the green house taking their own sweet time about growing large enough to be transplanted. But that's all right because I do not need to have them mature much before Thanksgiving. Yes, of course I have a place all saved for them, the soil rich and deep and full of humus from the compost pile.

No, I'm not bragging. I'm only trying to tell you what a lot you miss if you don't have a vegetable garden. Besides, look at all the exercise you'd get.

Valley Residents Attend Meeting Of Supervisors

A delegation of Carmel Valley residents attended Monday's meeting of the Board of Supervisors in Salinas and were assured that work on improving the county road would begin as soon as possible. The project will cost in the neighborhood of $185,000 and will be finished in July, 1950, it is expected.

The board also set a date for a hearing on the rezoning at the Valley road intersection for July 1 at 1:00 o'clock.

Mrs. deVoe To Show Color Slides To Garden Club Members

Mrs. Marcia DeVoe, familiar to Carmel mothers as the diminutive kindergarten teacher at Sunset School, will exhibit her skill as amateur photographer tonight when she shows her colored slides of the Monterey Centennial and the Portola Trek, and of Peninsula flowers to the Monterey Peninsula Garden Club. The meeting is scheduled for 8 p. m. in the Women's Civic Club, Grand street near Grove (behind the Museum), Pacific Grove. Carmel members (potential and actual) desiring transportation are asked to telephone Mrs. Ted Durein, 426-R.

Garden Club membership is open to any interested gardener on the Monterey Peninsula, and no invitation to join is necessary. Everyone is welcome to the regular third-Friday-of-the-month meetings, a small charge being made for non-members.

Sierra Playgrounds

California's "back yard" is full of them

More than 120 lakes in the Sierra and Cascades are man-made. They were built by P. G. and E. as reservoirs for 56 hydroelectric plants whose generators are spun by falling water. Our reservoirs capture melting snow in the Spring, prevent damaging floods and wasteful runoff of precious water, and provide regulated release of the water for year-round stream flow. Many popular fishing streams otherwise would be dry during the summer and fall vacation season. All this, and low-cost power too!

At many places, such as beautiful Lake Almanor nestled at the base of Mount Lassen, P. G. and E. development has created resort areas enjoyed by thousands.

P. G. and E. works closely with the Fish and Game Commission . . . building fish ladders, planting trout, maintaining stream flow. We are fish conservation enthusiasts.

Work never stops on our power-building program

For the record

Hydroelectric plants do not consume water...they borrow it temporarily, then return it to the stream.

"Hydro" aids irrigation . . . holding back flood-waters in the Spring and making the water available when it's needed most in the dry crop-growing months.

The Time Has Come . .

By Kippy Stuart

There are so many new sprays on the market that the poor gardener becomes baffled trying to keep up with them. The only thing to do is to read the instructions and discover for yourself what each particular spray is for. Before diagnosing the spray contents, it is wiser to diagnose what ails a particular plant. Most of us are nursing asters of some variety for late summer color, and are asters the dickens to raise! This one poor little plant is beset with all sorts of enemies, both beneath the ground and above the ground.

The blister beetle comes along about this time of the year and starts feeding on aster leaves. This blister beetle is about one inch long, but difficult to discover. He hides when you come along. A dose of DDT will fix Mister Blister Beetle. You don't have to see him; the residue of DDT on the aster leaves will do the trick.

Next is powdery mildew on the leaves. This pest goes right on through most of the garden, damaging delphiniums, sweet peas, phlox and many other desirable plants. Roses are beginning to fall victim to mildew. Sulphur in any form, either liquid or powder, will check mildew. If the powder form is used, first spray the plant well with water, then the powdered sulphur will adhere to the leaves and do the trick.

Root aphis play havoc with asters. You can have these root aphis in two colors, take your choice: pink aphis or green aphis. For root aphis use a ground fumigant. This may be applied in a watering can, according to directions, but be careful not to allow the liquid to touch the stalks of the plant. As if this weren't enough to pester any one plant, there is rust and the "yellows" in store for asters. Rust appears as orange powdery pustules on the lower side of leaves. The leaves soon wither and drop off. The sulphur spray will also check rust. The yellows comes very early in aster development and if not checked, away will go the crop. The name "yellows" indicates exactly what it is. New plant growth yellows and the stalks remain dwarfed. Flower heads are uneven and stunted. The plants look as though they were suffering from malnutrition, but all the feeding in the world won't bring them to maturity. Nicotine sspray, early in the plant life, will banish yellows. Pyrethrum or Rotenone will also do the trick.

While you are spraying all over the map for these indicated enemies of asters, you will also be ridding the plants of red spider, leaf aphis, thrip and mealy bug.

I am exhausted annotating the ills of one single plant. After reading this wail over, I feel like saying, "What's the use? Let's raise cabbages instead of asters!" But just let Doctor Billie step in here and give you the once-over on the troubles of the cabbage gardener! But Doctor Billie doesn't say "What's the use?" So let's don't say it either. Let's all get busy and spray.

Forest Theater Opera Season To Be Discussed

A 1949 opera season in Forest Theater will be the topic of discussion at a meeting to be held in room 11, Sunset School, on Wednesday, June 22, at 8 o'clock. Arturo Casiglia, director of the Pacific Opera Company, plans to attend the meeting and outline the general plan for the coming season. According to Casiglia, details will be discussed and suggestions will be welcomed.

A recent visitor in Carmel, Casiglia conferred with Hal Boyd, manager of last season's operas. Tentatively planned for presentation are Carmen, La Traviata, and La Boheme. Casiglia favors expanding the operas this year, both in orchestration and chorus. The Carmel City Council has allotted the dates of August 19, 20, and 21, for the proposed opera season. Former sponsors and all who are interested in encouraging the professional production of the world's famous operas are invited to attend the meeting.

Friends Invited To Greet Russ Bohlke At Legion Party

This weekend Russ Bohlke will make his first trip home since he suffered his football accident at the University of California last fall. Russ' father, Raymond Bohlke, is driving to Van Nuys today and will pick up his son at the Veterans' Hospital there to bring him to Carmel for a week's "leave."

On Monday evening Russ will attend Carmel's American Legion dinner at the Legion Hall, to which the Legion invites Russ' friends and well-wishers. At 8:00 p. m., following the dinner, he will be presented with the U. S. Savings Bonds which the Carmel American Legion Post has been holding for him.

Now in a wheel chair, Russ is able to get around pretty well and is looking forward to seeing all his friends. The Legion presentation ceremony Monday evening will be a good chance for you to say "hello" to him.

Just how high is "HIGH COMPRESSION"?

White sidewall tires, as illustrated, available at extra cost.

WHEN the talk turns to cars and car engines these days, that's a topic you hear much about.

So it's fairly interesting to note that, even back before the war, Buick engines like this one were touring the testing grounds with compressions as high as 10 to 1.

Even later than that this same big Buick power plant has been filling our engineers' notebooks with data on 8 to 1 compression ratios.

What has come out of this? Two or three interesting points.

First of all, that this big Buick Fireball valve-in-head straight-eight already has a compression ratio that gets as much out of present fuels as any engine on the market.

Next, that these ratios can readily be stepped up to fit higher octane gasolines as they become available.

And probably most important of all, that high compression is only one measurement of a good engine.

There's the fundamental matter of engine efficiency—power output per cubic inch of displacement, engineers call it. On that score, Buick stands where it always has—just about tops in its field!

Which means, in very simple words—better go see for yourself.

The fun you get from your car—the pleasure and satisfaction it gives you—are best measured in just one place—behind the wheel.

So we invite you to see your Buick dealer for a firsthand test of Buick. Take it in your own two hands and find out how good it feels, how full of get-up-and-go.

It won't take long to make it pretty clear that the place to get your order in is the place where you get Buick power.

Do You Remember . . . ?

BACK TO PARIS

By A. G. Warshawsky

Kleiminger, too, was anxious to see our work. Unfortunately, we found that several of our pictures, despite the precautions we had taken, had stuck together. This was no great loss in my case, as my work was still crude compared with the excellent productions of Halpert. Yet I felt that what I had gained through the first-hand knowledge of great masterpieces, would be a lasting asset. Incomplete as my Italian sketches were, there was a brilliance of coloring in them, compared with my previous work, which proved to me that a new world of light and color had been opened to me in Italy. It seemed as if I had been working in darkness. American painting, with its academic palette of earth colors only, now appeared to me to belong to a land of gloom and darkness.

There was now no doubt in my mind that Post-Impressionism, for all its glaring faults and deformities, had brought joy and color into a field of painting that had been degenerating into the cold pompous and photographic.

But there was, as in the case of every innovation, "the other side of the medal" to be considered. Every revolt against the "academic standards," conscious or unconscious, is exploited by a crowd of weaklings, insineere bluffers, looking for a shortcut to notoriety and commercial success. The unconscious eccentricities of the few geniuses were promptly noted, adopted, and systematized by these hangers-on.

The tremendous sincerity of Cezanne, which in many cases overcomes his deficiencies of technique, found many imitators, who only copied the defects, without ever being able to acquire the virtues and the simplicity at which Cezanne aimed. There was in his case another factor to be considered. Cezanne was not endowed with normal vision. He suffered from a form of astigmatism that made him see standing objects as if tipped towards him. What in his case was a form of originality arising from a defect—as is so often the case with "originality"—was converted into a "manner" by his imitators, with the result that a school of still-life painters arose whose canvases presented nothing but rolling and reeling objects.

There was an attempt on the part of many to reduce the art of painting to its simplest, I might say, most rudimentary forms of expression. Even the most skillfully executed works of this "school" presented such a flat appearance that they resembled posters rather than paintings. Strange and meaningless arabesques were fitted into frames and exhibited at various galleries. Every day saw the birth of a new "ism" or theory of paintings. To the incompetent or the fanatics (are there not often identical terms?) these new manners were sign-posts to rapid fame and fortune. Painting, which had once been so "difficult," was now by a special dispensation of the gods to become easy. Trees were simply a green blotch with a heavy blue outline. Abstract composition was preached, subject matter disdained. The School of Two-Apples-on-a-plate was instituted. A "self-made" critic, in a book on modern painting, solemnly announced that an apple painted by Cezanne had more significance and art value than a canvas by Raphael. Snobs raved before canvases, flecked here and there with vague touches of color, and felt uplifted at the sight of crude monstrosities that a sign-painter might well haev refused to acknowledge as his work.

Anyone who ventured to inquire as to the significance and the meaning of these strange productions, would meet with contemptuous shrugs and be given to understand that if these works did not speak for themselves, convey their own message, any verbal explanations would be wasted. Hans Andersen's tale of the Two Weavers seems to me the best answer to this form of insincerity and snobbery.

The vogue of Matisse was already firmly established, but he, in turn, was having difficulty in maintaining his reputation for originality in view of the "daring" and insane works everywhere on view. At a prewar Autumn Salon he exhibited a large portrait, which was merely an oval with a neck and hair lightly sketched in. Features were conspicuous by their absence. Commenting on this strange work, a critic affirmed that the portrait by M. Matisse was so complete in design and harmony of color, that to add features would have been "de trop" and would have only marred a perfect ensemble.

On another occasion Matisse showed a huge canvas with over-life-size figures crudely drawn and painted. The figures were in vivid red looming against a landscape of poison-green and a violently blue sky. Regarding this picture an enthusiastic admirer of Matisse assured me with bated breath that the rhythm and composition of this work were so delicately balanced, that the slightest deflection or modification of any of the figures or objects represented, would have ruined that masterpiece. My impression, on the contrary, was that any of the figures or objects could have been moved for several feet without in the slightest way changing the general effect of pure idiocy.

The truth is that the cult of bunk and humbug had taken on such dimensions and the "initiated" had grown so aggressive, that the average artist and art student was cowed into silence. Some were even finally convinced against their better judgment that there was no arguing against the new verities. To this must be added the fact that art critics on newspapers were so badly paid, that the galleries where the new art was exhibited had little difficulty in bribing them to play up their wares and proclaim the genius of their exhibitors.

For the first time in history, art was being exploited according to the precepts of "pure business," with newspaper and stunt-publicity in the most approved modern fashion. People unable to distinguish a chromo from an original oil painting were glibly talking of Post-Impressionism, Fauvism, and Cubism. Since the great boom of the once despised early Impressionists, dealers had begun persuading prospective buyers that to invest in "misunderstood" painters was the soundest form of speculation from which they were certain in a very short while to reap huge profits.

As the commercialization of art was placed more and more on a "pure business" basis, the jargon of the sellers and buyers, brokers, middlemen, agents, and what not, developed into the "sales talk" employed in dealing with stocks and bonds; for this is what painting was beginning to mean to many people not otherwise interested in "Art." This was especially the case in the postwar period when the French franc took its precipitous tumble. Many people with some money and no reliable commercial investments in view, took to buying pictures as a means for realizing profits.

Often a client would place an order with his picture dealer as he would with a stock broker. One of these investors when asked by a friend about the latest work of a certain artist, whose pictures he had been buying through his dealer, replied that when he bought Suez Canal stock he did not have to see the Suez Canal.

In order to launch a new painter a group of three or four dealers who were handling his work, would often resort to fictitious sales. At a public sale—generally at the Hotel des Ventes where the most important pictures sales took place—the work of the painter would be put up for auction. Then the dealers, through their proxies, would bid up the pictures among themselves to a very high figure. The eight per cent government tax on auction sales was shared among the dealers, and the pictures purchased in this way went down on record as having fetched the often huge prices that had been bid for them.

THE LONG CLIMB

If now the path ahead seems long and steep,
Beset with jagged rock and narrow pass,
Relax and rest a moment; do not weep.
Look bravely upward toward the greener grass
On higher slopes more open to the sun:
Glance backward briefly; note the progress made
From far down where the climbing was begun.
With new perspective, go forth unafraid.
Through untold centuries men sought to win
Their way to power by force; but now we see
That love has greater strength; has ever been
The path of peace and rich fraternity.

The goal of peace on earth, and in our time,
Inspires the strong to choose the upward climb.

—Carrie C. Huthsing.

LET ME PARTAKE

Let me partake of all the earth can hold
Ripe-sweet, full-tang, sun-hot, frost-cold!
Attest the prow that shears the wave
A stinging dash of pearls upon my face,
Yet leave a swirling froth of lace
On apathy's submergent grave.

—Constance Walker.

FIFTH FREEDOM

I sing of the four freedoms; well we need
Remember often why they should be dear,
Those gifts we take for granted here
And whose accustomed worth we little heed.
For winds of hope blow where men never bleed
For uttered thought, where they live free from fear,
And each in his own way prays God to hear,
Unvexed by want and all its ugly breed.

I sing of one more freedom, of the whole
The crown, enhancing all the rest, and one
Which rises sheerly through the lack of these;
The freedom of the mind and heart and soul,
That liberty to noble captives known,
To Aesop, Bunyan, and to Socrates.

Friends and early residents, in spite of common interests, often drift apart in these days of change in our village, and it takes a catalyst to bring them together. Fred Bechdolt is one of the best, as was proven last week when he entertained at a dinner party on Thursday evening. A feast of Bechdolt specialties was prepared under his direction by his "handmaidens," as he calls his granddaughters, Mrs. Hugh Gottfried and Mrs. John Sand of Berkeley, who also served as his hostesses.

Guests who enjoyed Mr. Bechdolt's hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. Armin Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson Jeffers, Col. and Mrs. Shelburn Robison, Mr. and Mrs. James Hopper, Mrs. Rubo Coit, Noel Sullivan and Henry Williams.

The Business and Professional Women's Club met in Monterey on June 9 to hear reports on the state convention, held in Coronado on May 20-22, from delegates Thelmo Stohr, local president, Kitty Ragsdale and Ilda Moody.

At Monterey Peninsula College on June 10, Mrs. Stohr presented the BPWC Service Award to Barbara Downey, who was selected as the most outstanding girl in the graduating class from the standpoint of school service and scholarship.

On June 12 the organization held its annual brunch at the home of Mrs. Christine Raynsford. The committee in charge, headed by Frances Wolvert, provided a delicious breakfast for the members, who were served in the sunny patio.

Newlywed Lusiers Here

Following their wedding in Aberdeen, Washington, on June 11, Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Lusier are spending their honeymoon in Carmel at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Lusier. The wedding took place in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bliss B. Jones of Aberdeen, and the couple took a plane from Seattle to San Francisco, where they were met by the senior Lusiers on Sunday.

The new Mrs. Lusier has just graduated from Washington State, while her husband will continue his studies at Central College in Ellenburg, Washington, where the couple will make their home.

College Vacationers

Peggy Riker is full of enthusiasm for college life at Vassar, where she has just completed her first year as a scholarship student. Peggy, who is the daughter of Mrs. Mildred Prosser Riker, is a political science major and served as an editor of the school paper, the Vassar Review. After some sun, relaxation and social activities, she plans to work here in Carmel this summer.

Home for a brief vacation is Alice Morehouse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest F. Morehouse. She plans a stay at Silver Lake before enrolling for summer session at the College of the Pacific, where she will return as a senior this fall working for teacher's credentials.

New Fields for Riveras

Cartoonist Tony Rivera is in New York to do animation for television following a hurry-up call from a New York television studio, according to his wife, the former Mary Ingels. He has been lucky enough to find an apartment, and Mary, having sold their house in Tujunga, will depart for New York within a few days with small son, Juan, and her Steinway.

The Riveras have been living in Southern California for several years, where Tony was connected with the studios and with the art department of the Los Angeles Mirror. Mary, a talented pianist and composer, will continue with her music in New York. Her most recent composition, a suite for piano and orchestra, is now in the process of being orchestrated.

Flying Jet Bombers

Major Gus Weiser, son-in-law of Chief of Police and Mrs. Roy Fraties, pays a monthly visit to the Peninsula since his transfer to Barksdale, Louisiana. Required to make a cross country flight every 30 days, he makes the Peninsula his destination. Last time he sat his B-26 down in this neighborhood on June 3 he reported that back in Louisiana he has collected 15 hours flying jet bombers.

All Work

Chasing down rumors of a trip made by Peggy Long and Claire Cross of the Decorators' Shop, we learned that the trip, alas, left no time for play. The two of them drove down to Los Angeles, where they spent five days, then on to do two decorating jobs at Palm Springs, where they nearly "died on the vine" in the summer heat for a week and a half.

Mrs. O'Brien Leaves

Mrs. Howard Vincent O'Brien returned to Chicago last week after a lengthy stay in Carmel, when she made many friends. After a visit in Chicago, Mrs. O'Brien will depart for Lima, Peru, where she plans to remain for about a year. Her daughter, Mrs. Jean O'Brien Lowman, and her three children will accompany Mrs. O'Brien on the trip to South America.

Hatlo Christening

If Little Iodine can be kept under control this weekend, the christening of James Bradley Hatlo, son and heir of Mr. and Mrs. James Hatlo, will be an impressive event in his life. Close friends, several of them fellow cartoonists, from San Francisco, Los Angeles and New York, will be present for the ceremony on Sunday, which will be held at St. John's Chapel in Del Monte. The Reverend Theodore Bell, who officiated at the Hatlos' wedding, will perform the service.

Since young Jimmy is to the Hatlos, naturally, the most important baby in the world, he has two sets of godparents. Mrs. James Doud is one godmother, and Mrs. Bradley Kelly the other. Mrs. Kelly will fly out from New York with her husband, vice president of King Features Syndicate, who is godfather for his namesake. His second godfather, Mr. Philip Sheridan of San Francisco, wil also be on hand for the event.

Fun At Bixby Creek

The Bixby Creek place of the Chester Hares was the setting last Sunday for a barbecue given by four families and a formidable number of children for Dr. Margaret Swigart Neubauer and her husband, Dr. Frederick Neubauer of Hamilton Observatory. Some of the children swam, some made expeditions up the canyon, and the adults got involved in the intricacies of barbecuing steaks properly.

Present were the Chester Hares, with children Rickey, Gay and Warren Masten, and Jimmy, Lee and Don Hare; the Frank Lloyds, with Jennefer, Skipper, Lucinda and Mardi; the Russell Williams, with Bea, Red, Johnny and Honey; the Dick Loftons with young Nancy; and guests Mike Criley, June Kress and Edelyn Cory. That only accounts for 18 youngsters, but the parents were under the impression that there were a lot more around.

Painting Purchased

Mr. and Mrs. Don Gordon of Vagabond's Corner are torn between pleasure and regret over the sale of an oil still-life done by their daughter, Mrs. Paul Mochel of Village Green, Los Angeles. They really had hoped to keep it as a decoration in their shop but were beguiled into selling it by some New York visitors who were in town this week.

The stock and general idea of the shop will still be along the same lines, though, featuring character candles in all sorts of fascinating shapes and sizes, scented candles, gay and colorful tapers, big candles, little candles, every variety you can imagine. A new line of taper is the Charm Wick candle, a new design that would add just the right decorative touch to any room. Good news, too, is the fact that although CANDLES OF CARMEL has changed hands, Mr. John O'Connell, the former owner and manager, will continue to be active in the business, and will still be in the shop. Here's a good suggestion on how to make Poppa pleased as punch on his day—just hie yourself to DEREK RAYNE'S MEN'S SHOP and pick out one of the beautiful shirts in the marvelous sale that's going on down there now. Sales are unusual at DEREK RAYNE'S, and the bargains in this one are even more unusual. One-third off on all the shirts in the deal, with a wide variety of colors and fabric designs to choose from. Solid colors, of course, are headed up by the good old favorite white, and there are other plain shades, too, as well as some very smart stripes. A limited selection of imported fabrics is to be had in the sale, and as for brands, you'll find some Arrows in on this. Whether you're shopping for Father's Day or not, you won't want to miss out on this shirt sale. Don't forget—one-third of, and the place is DEREK RAYNE'S, located at Ocean and Lincoln streets.

And guess what just arrived down at NB FLOWERS??? A big new shipment of those gay and attractive tropical plants for home loveliness, such as dish gardens. All sorts of interesting leafy varieties will give your decor that needed bit of greenery, while some plants are so dainty that you could even wear a sprig on your lapel! At NB they're happy to plant whatever you pick in your own container, or you can choose from the new and interesting pottery, copper, or brassware in the shop. Modernistic and oriental motifs in thep ottery are to be had, and there are even a few pieces imported from Italy. We know you'll have fun caring for your tropical dish garden, so why not select your plants and get started right away? NB FLOWERS is in the Seven Arts Court on Lincoln street.

Is Dad a regular bookworm, or does he just like a bit of good, entertaining reading now and then? Betcha you make a hit with him come Sunday if you present him with one of the list of Father's Day books from the VILLAGE BOOK SHOP. A wide range of subjects to choose from includes a title to please any Pop. How Green Was My Father, by David Dodge, is a travel story of the sort calculated to provide chuckles aplenty, for instance, as well as such volumes as The Father of the Bride, by Edward Streeter, or Cheaper by the Dozen (Gilbreth and Carey.) Father probably won't be the only one who reads a collection of short stories such as Mixture for Men, which includes many items by famous authors. Better look over the selection of books for Father's Day at the VILLAGE BOOK SHOP before you decide on Dad's gift. Ocean Avenue, near the Bank of Carmel.

Happy anniversary, TWIGS OF CARMEL! Next Wednesday, June 22, marks the first anniversary that that unique little shop in the Golden Bough Courts has been known as TWIGS. And for you who liked them so well before, there's a new supply of those cute little miniature boxers and cocker spaniels. Why not help TWIGS OF CARMEL to celebrate its first birthday by visiting soon? On Ocean Avenue across from the Pine Inn.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Don't Fence Yourself In

Every spring, Handy Peterson and Easy Roberts patch up the stone wall that separates their farms. They walk along talking—Easy on one side, Handy on the other—picking up the fallen stones and putting them back.

Afterwards, over a friendly glass of beer, Easy says, "You know, wall-mending is a nice neighborly custom, but we really don't need that wall. We keep it up just because it happens to be there."

"Yes," says Handy, "a lot of walls and fences and boundaries keep on separating people for no good reason. Maybe we'd all be better off if some of them were torn down, instead of kept standing."

From where I sit, Handy said a mouthful. Take the "walls of intolerance" that people build up against each other. I like a temperate glass of beer now and then, you may prefer buttermilk—but that's no reason for me to criticize you, or you, me. Let's live and let-live together—making more friends and fewer "walls."

Now it can be told: the Cover Girl and Cover Boy appearing on the second edition of the Sunset School annual were Peggy Weaver and Howard Roloff, whose identities were a deep dark secret until the appearance of the annual last Friday. Patterned after Life, the school book was started last year under the direction of Mrs. Sylvia Jordan and Arthur Holman.

The much discussed Trompe L'Oeil and Illusionism exhibit at San Francisco's Legion of Honor is a fascinating and stimulating show, according to Marie Short, who spent a weekend in the city just to see it.

Did you know there's a big band-tail pigeon controversy in Salinas? Well, there is.

Our Point Lobos correspondent reports that now the tourists are behaving, the cypress headland is vastly improved; the pelicans are nesting, and if you can stand the sight, you can watch them feeding their babes (take your binoculars, though); somebody landed on the bird sanctuary in a rubber boat (strictly taboo), which brought the Coast Guard in a hurry.

We almost hope the Lions Club will have to keep on selling tickets on our corners—it's such fun to have them there.

The warm days occasioned one of the worst beach picnics on record, when men, women, dogs and children gathered windy Saturday evening on the rocks at Reamer's point, to be routed in utter confusion by smoke, children's wails and a hundred minor catastrophes.

Seal Rocks looked just like Carmel beach, which looked just like Coney Island.

And a friend we met on the street complained that the heat was making Guinevere intractable; Guinevere is her bunion.

Nature note: Stanley Bishop turned up a wild bees' nest on his San Carlos lot—the bees, oblivious of the proximity of civilization, were busy depositing honey.

At times we fear that the good habit of walking will disappear completely in the village, and it warms our hearts to observe two inveterate walkers, Miss "Scoobie" O'Sullivan and Miss Edna Owings, who, unlike the rest of us, still stroll and enjoy the sights and smells of the countryside.

We have been terrified lest a couple of trolls purchase the vacant house next to us, and we were delighted last week to learn that our new neighbors will be Dr. and Mrs. Robert Aurner, who will move into the Bosworth house on San Antonio around the first of July.

Overheard at the Village Corner: a spirited argument by two ladies as to whether or not Henry Williams, local author, should wear the plaid sport shirt he so dearly loves. No one's safe, we tell you.

Toby Street's refreshment specialty, a punch, has achieved official recognition by his friends and is now known as Street's Lay-Away Punch.

The smartest pair of blue jeans in town belongs to Helen Heavey, who manages to wear them and look as though she'd be thoroughly acceptable at the Waldorf.

Jim Thyson attends parties only when he's assured of being the only male present, claims he likes it that way.

We were on a fishing, sun basking and swimming expedition to Little Sur Saturday and report with shame that the only catch was made by a reluctant, ten year old boy, who was discouraged finally from taking an eel home for his mother to cook.

Purty Jennefer Lloyd will have only 12 days vacation between graduation from high school and enrollment at Stanford for the summer.

Give Georgie Taylor a beansprout, and she'll come up with a Chinese dinner, and we don't know of anyone who can turn out a better one.

Kaput, our Siamese kitten, adores swimming in the ocean. Last week, when she was returning from her daily dip at the beach she brought home a dinner guest, a quail whom she recently befriended. We have named the quail, a regular boarder, Vanishing Point—on account of that's what she's fast approaching.

Hear Mr. Bissantz

Some 40 people, interested in the maintenance of world peace, met at the Carmel Highlands home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gergen on Wednesday evening last week to hear Edgar Bissantz speak on the problem. Dr. Henry Houghton introduced Mr. Bissantz, who is a member of the national board of the National Emergency Committee for Atlantic Union, the action group for Federal Union.

The gathering also heard James Broughton read from his prize-winning play, The Playground, a poetic fantasy dealing with man's present day plight and his uncertain future.

Surprise Shower

With the help of Mrs. Waldo Hicks, Mrs. Arthur Johnson and Mrs. Paul Hazdovac teamed up to spring a wonderful surprise baby shower on Mrs. William Zimmerman and Mrs. William Dunkleberger last Friday evening. The two matrons were astonished to find their friends gathered at the Hicks home and made all the delighted noises worthy of the lovely gifts they received.

In addition to the hostesses, those present were Mesdames Noreen Antrum, George Mullnix, Lottie Morton, Lawrence Leidig, Truman Scarlett, Ernest Schweninger, Pat Patrick and the Misses Anne Hicks and Truley Scarlett. Sending gifts but unable to attend were Mrs. Harry Turner, Miss Joan Mullnix and Mrs. Walt Tanous.

Attends Nephew's Ordination

Miss Eloise Carwyle has returned from a visit in the San Joaquin Valley, where she attended the ordination of her nephew, the Reverend Robert Carwyle Gould, at the Church of the Saviour in Hanford. Mr. Gould is being graduated from the Divinity School of the Pacific (Episcopal) at Berkeley and has been appointed Vicar of St. Philip's in Coalinga.

Other guests who came from a distance to be present at the ceremony were Mrs. Gould's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hawkins of Norwich, England.

Marilyn Sargent To Be Presented June 26 By M.A.C.

the college harmony class where she consistently received the grade of A.

In 1945 her musical activities lay dormant while Marilyn became interested in dramatics. She appeared in radio and local performances. In the spring of 1948 her musical interests revived and she resumed instruction with Miss Withrow and after only two months entered the Central Section of California Music Festival and brought home a rating of "superior."

Miss Withrow's leaving for the east occasioned Marilyn's application for entrance to Dominican College, where she was accepted as a music major and is now a most apt pupil of Stephanie Shehatovich, who is known here in her own right as an outstanding pianist.

Following is the program to be presented at 3 o'clock at the Carmel Woman's Club:

Variety in Showing

The weekly fashion luncheon at the Pine Inn took a new tack on Wednesday, when the eight participating shops displayed a well planned variety of fashions. One model from each shop wore one or two costumes, ranging from nightgowns and robes, through swim suits, active and spectator sportswear, to afternoon and evening dresses. The program presented a refreshing change for the audience in the packed Garden and Victorian rooms.

Mrs. Gallatin Powers, looking chic in a summery dark sheer with a huge natural straw hat, introduced the models and commented on the various offerings. Representing the stores were: Miss Ellen Leeds, Harriet Duncan; Mrs. Edith Clancy, Country Shop; Mrs. Michelin Kelsey, the Lanz Shop; Miss Barbara May, Gail Coupe; Mrs. Rose Marie Manthey, Maxine's; Miss Susan Moore, the Silver Thimble; Mrs. Anthony Kastros, the Banbox; and Mrs. Ruth Bedau, the Cinderella Shop.

Other contributors were Kramer's Shop for Women, which supplied beach sandals and handbags; the Stocking Shop, gloves and handbags; Town and Country Interiors, costume jewelry; N. B. Flowers, decorations for tables and flowers for the models; El Paseo Beauty Salon, coiffures.

HI CHATTER

By Nancy Page

Last week of school the campus clubs held their meetings to elect leaders for the coming year. The class of '50, next semester's seniors, finally came through with the decision of Bill Albee for president; Lee Laagenour, vice president; Connie Campbell, secretary; and Ed Goodrick, treasurer.

GAA members got together to choose Donna Douglas as president, Diane Lewis, vice-president; ad Nancy Brown, secretary-treasurer. New GAA members were also officially welcomed at the meeting. Block C leaders named for the coming term are Steve Whitaker, president; Dick Weer, vice-president; Neils Reimers, secretary, and Peter Lyon, treasurer.

Leaders' Club has announced those girls accepted as new members into the organization, with each one being chosen on a basis of leadership, scholarship, athletics, service, and all-around qualities. Newly elected Leaders are Ann Whittaker, Christine Malvido, Ann Thoeni, June Updike, and Dee Sharpe. Initiation ceremonies for the girls were held Tuesday night at the home of Joan Daniels, with a short business meeting and social time included in the evening's events. Selected as new officers of Leaders' Club are Joan Daniels, president; Edelen Cory, vice-president-historian, and Ann Thoeni, secretary-treasurer. The Club, in addition to its regular activities, not long ago sponsored a tea for faculty members, with all of the girls acting as hostesses.

Girls' League members met recently for a tea sponsored by the sophomore class, featuring Mrs. Mariquita Brey as guest speaker. Refreshments were prepared and served by the sophomore girls, and election of officers was held. President for next semester is Ann Whittaker; vice-president in June Updike; Sally Holt will serve as secretary; and Carol Timbers will fill the office of treasurer.

Joan Carr Home

Joan Carr, daughter of Mrs. Virginia Carr, is arriving tonight for summer vacation from the University of Oregon. "Vacation" is stretching a point in Joanie's case, however, for after special training at the Red Cross aquatic school she will be one of the college students in charge of the new high school swimming pool. In case you've forgotten, Joanie is a very active member of the women's swimming team at Oregon.

Another of Carmel's prize swimmers who will be on duty at the pool is Ginger Klein, who is now home from Mills College.

Biz Carr, having just graduated from the high school, gets to loaf this summer in preparation for her first year at college. She will go to Connecticut College for Women in the fall.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"The earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof; the world, and they that dwell therein" (Psalms 24:1). This verse is the Golden Text of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, June 19. The subject of the sermon is "Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?"

Included in the sermon are the following citations:

The Bible: "I will open my mouth in a parable: I will utter dark sayings of old: Which we have heard and known, and our fathers have told us. We will not hide them from their children, shewing to the generation to come the praises of the Lord, and his strength, and his wonderful works that he hath done. For he established a testimony in Jacob, and appointed a law in Israel, which he commanded our fathers, that they should make them known to their children" (Psalms 78: 2-5).

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "We tread on forces. Withdraw them, and creation must collapse. Human knowledge calls them forces of matter; but divine Science declares that they belong wholly to divine Mind, are inherent in this Mind, and so restores them to their rightful home and classification" (p. 124).

The Chapel is set in a grove of the great Del Monte oaks. It is opposite the Naval School, Fremont Street, just outside Monterey.

the fairy scenes, and, of course, this wonderful drama is always greatly enjoyed by the young folks, but it cannot be considered primarily a juvenile. In 1945 Edith Stebbins staged a scene from As You Like It and a few of Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, and in 1940 Berta Metzger's Hawaiian fantasy was given a try-out by the author, but these were in no sense major productions.

When the newly-formed Forest Theater Guild presents Blanche Tolmie's three-act play, Over the Fairy Line, on the evenings of July 2, 3 and 4, it will mark a return to one of Carmel's delightful traditions—the production of plays written for children, acted by children, and staged with the importance of a classic.

Over the Fairy Line was first produced in the Forest Theater in 1930, and was a decided success. The children loved to act in it; those who were not in it loved the performance, and the adults, although unable to project themselves into that delicate fairy world, enjoyed it to the extent of their limited capabilities.

Over the Fairy Line is the story of a little girl who lost her playmate and in searching for him found her way across the magic line into fairyland; and while there she learned so many interesting things and absorbed so much of the irridescence of the world that when she at last returned to her real life she had laid the foundations for a joyous and worth-while existence.

Miss Tolmie will direct the rehearsals of her play, and this assures a smooth and well-balanced production, replete with grace and beauty.

Elizabeth Fogel, whose work on the settings of last year's Shakespeare Festival placed her high on the list of our local scenic artists, has made stunning designs for the Tolmie drama, and will superintend the construction.

David Eldridge will arrange and direct the dances; John Chitwood has charge of the lighting; Rhoda Johnson and Hazel McClelland will make the costumes.

San Juan Rodeo Set For June 26

The advance sale of tickets to the Fiesta-Rodeo of San Juan Bautista, June 26, is the best in the long history of the affair staged to raise funds for the restoration of the largest of the Franciscan Mission churches that was severely damaged in the San Francisco earthquake of 1906.

"In order to give advantage to the families that have several children, we enlarged the general admission section by cutting down on the central section of the grand stand heretofore reserved," Arthur S. Nyland, San Juan Bautista rancher and race horse owner stated yesterday. "Now the number of requests for reserved seats indicates that this year's show may be a complete sell out."

Nyland went on to explain however that every seat in the area is a good one. Treasurer of the committee and one of the original sponsors of the show, he stated that great care was given to planning the Mission arena built on the site of the orchard planted by the Indians and Padres, so that every seat gives unobstructed view of the arena.

"It may not be the largest rodeo ground in the country," Nyland said, "but it has a beauty of location and a comfort for the spectators that none can excel."

Rezoning To Be Discussed At Monday Meeting

A public meeting to discuss the proposed commercial rezoning of the Coast Highway at the Carmel Valley turnoff will be held Monday night at Sunset Auditorium at 8 o'clock, and all those interested are invited to attend. There will be representatives to discuss the matter from Carmel Valley, Carmel Woods, the Highlands, Carmel Unincorporated and members of the Carmel Business Association.

The meeting is being held following the setting of the date for a further hearing by the Board of Supervisors at last Monday's meeting. The week before, the matter had been approved by the planning commission by a vote of six to one, despite numerous protests against the venture.

On the committee for arrangements of next Monday's meeting will be Dr. A. L. Van Meter, Corum Jackson, Fred Farr, Gunnar Norberg, Helen Clark Cranston, Miss Orre Hazeltine, Col. A. S. Balsam and Gen. E. G. Chapman.

Planning Board Sets Date For Legion Hearing

Carmel Planning Commission set July 20 as date for a public hearing on the request of the Carmel Post of the American Legion for a use permit for their club house, now non-conforming to the zoning ordinance, so that if the building should be destroyed by fire, it could be rebuilt on the residence zone lot it now occupies.

Commission approved plans of Charles Gillette for a two story commercial building to be built on west side of Mission street between Fifth and Sixth streets for Stanley Clay. It is to have stores on the first floor, apartments upstairs.

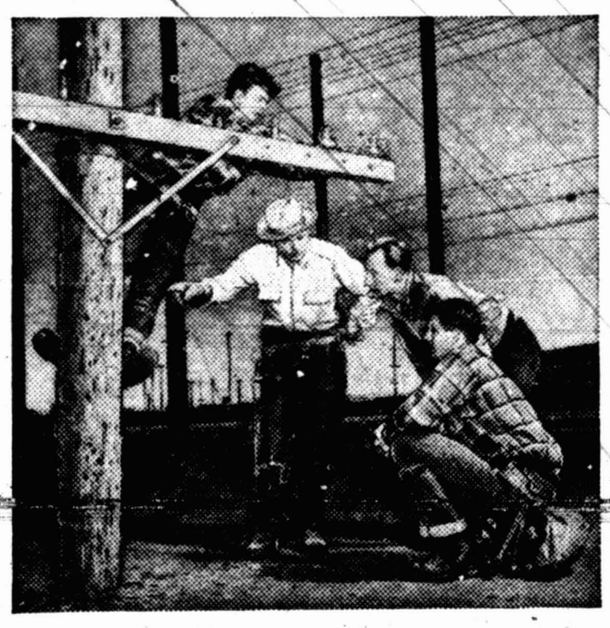
WHERE THE SPIRIT OF SERVICE BEGINS

One Coast-wide school system is for telephone people only—and better service for the West is the result

1. As this young lady learns to use a training switchboard, she'll also learn many things that will be mighty important to good service. All through her training she'll see how operators make courtesy and helpfulness a normal part of their jobs. And the same spirit is present as other telephone people learn their new skills.



2. On stubby poles like these, linemen learn to use their new climbing equipment. This is just one of the more than one hundred courses that telephone people study in towns large and small—up and down the Coast. In 1948, thousands of employees received training. That means thousands of men and women better able to furnish good service to you.

3. On-the-job-training here in the West is typified by this "student" who is learning the workings of a trouble indicator frame—an automatic detective that constantly makes sure the lines on its "beat" are giving good service. Even experienced employees take refresher courses like this to keep up-to-date . . . and keep learning their way up the ladder.

4. Good service for you comes from telephone people who know their jobs. You can help them serve you best by making sure you always have the right number in mind before calling, leaving a little time between calls, giving the called person time to answer.
